Mickelson Sees TV News Improved by Video Tape

"A fascinating new element has been added to news coverage on television," Sig Mickelson, CBS Inc. Vice President and general manager of CBS told an OPC audience Tuesday night. He said Video tape vastly will improve the job done by TV news.

Video tape is the new electronic system that enables moving pictures to be recorded and instantly played back without the use of film. The tape, which looks like a wider version of the tape in home recorders, provides superb quality which often can not be distinguished from live broadcasting.

Mickelson outlined the problem faced by television news coverage of lengthy political conventions, UN sessions and senate committee hearings as follows: "We do a genuine disservice by putting Karl Detzer, Jr., who recovered from wounds as a combat infantryman in the Battle of the Bulge to go on to Japan as a Yank correspondent died July 27 in Leland, Mich. His father is a roving editor for Reader's Digest.

The New York Herald Tribune will be honored at the Club Thursday, Sept. 11. Control of the paper recently was acquired by John Hay Whitney, American ambassador to the Court of Saint James.

The occasion will kick off a series of Media nights, covering all metropolitan newspapers, news-magazines, wire services and networks.

The panel will be headed by Ogden R. Reid, the paper's president and editor. Panel members will include Frank Taylor, executive vice president; George Cornish, executive editor; Luke Carroll, news and city editor; Donald Rogers, business and financial editor and William Miller, chief editorial writer.

Reid and the panel will discuss the Trib's past and essay to project the future. Special emphasis will be placed on the newspaper's overseas coverage.

In a reply to a Bulletin query this week, Reid said: "In the past two years the Herald Tribune's foreign staff has steadily expanded, with the addition of new bureaus in Moscow, Beirut, Tel Aviv and the Far East.

"In addition, the European edition is now sold in 70 countries on newsstands or by subscription. I am sure it is our intention to further broaden and strengthen our overseas coverage.

There's a fair chance that AP's Relman (Pat) Morin will be assigned to the Little Rock story if things begin to pop there again. If so, it will have taken him 32,500 miles to re-enter the Arkansas community.

Last summer Pat was in Little Rock where he won his second Pulitzer Prize for RELMAN (PAT) MORIN reporting the integration riots at Central High School. Later, he toured in ten southern states

OPC Visits West Point

For the second year in a row, members of the OPC recently visited West Point at the invitation of the U.S. Military Academy.

Arriving by bus from New York City, the OPC visitors were given a complete tour of the USMA, including a parade of the 2400 cadets, their first parade of the academic year. In addition, the OPCers were entertained at an outdoor luncheon and a cocktail party hosted by Generals Davidson and Throckmorton. Lt. Col. Joel Stephens and Capt. Philip Farris, of the Public Information Office, escorted the Club members on their tour.

As the result of an invitation extended by Joe Peters and Ansel Talbert, Gen. Davidson agreed to visit the Club as honor guest at an OPC "West Point Night" to be arranged by the appropriate committees.

on endless minute coverage which drones on — tape gives us the best of the actuality plus the best of the interpretive by trained newsmen, correspondents and reporters."

Using the 1952 and 1956 political conventions as examples, Mickelson pointed out that more than 130 hours of live coverage was provided for the viewing public in 1952. The networks at that time had agreed to cover the conventions from "gavel to gavel" and he said the materials between the gavel raps often was tedious and dull.

With video tape, Mickelson declared, "we can edit a 45 minute staged demonstration to one minute, and a droning nominating speech to five minutes. Realistically, we can do a better job by taping everything at the conventions, editing it down and presenting it at a convenient time with supplementary commentary by our CBS correspondents."

He indicated that certain parts of the convention sessions would still be covered live as they happened, particularly the balloting process and the acceptance speeches.

Summing up, Mickelson said: "Television is a uniquely live medium. We believe in live coverage where warranted. We'll break into the network schedule readily to present important news as it is happening. But we will not waste the viewers time with hour after hour of deliberations in which the significant developments are only a small part of the proceedings. In such cases, we will exercise our function as editors. Video tape is bringing about a new pattern for television news coverage. We will be well advised to consider seriously utilizing this pattern in the future."

Old China Hand Backgrounds "off shore" Crisis

by Daniel T. O'Brien

(This article was written at the request of the Bulletin. The writer was formerly a Far Eastern correspondent and columnist for the Herald Tribune and the onetime Army and Navy editor of the Manila Daily Bulletin.)

New York - Sept. 3 - An advance echelon of U.S. Marines supported by airborne troops have landed on Formosa. Additional elements of Marines are enroute to this Nationalist China stronghold for the building up of a powerful amphibious striking force to implement Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's assault troops which now number more than 600,000 men, official military sources have revealed.

The sudden appearance of U.S. Marines immediately has given rise to intense speculation. First, what is the full implication of this sudden maneuver on the part of U.S. forces, and secondly, what is the overall strategy of the combined Nationalist China-U.S. forces in the defense of Quemoy and other off-shore islands against Communist China aggression.

There are several schools of thought regarding the role of U.S. forces in particular and Chiang Kai-shek's army in general in the mounting intensity in this new Western Pacific front. One reliable source claims that the presence of U.S. Marines is a well timed power play by the U.S. Military as a psychological deterrent designed to take the edge off of Mao Tse-tung's present upper hand position in this conflict.

Much Speculation

More than that, there is considerable speculation as to just how far the United States will go in its assistance pact with Chiang Kai-shek. It is pointed out that the United States is committed by treaty to the defense of Formosa but not to all off-shore islands.

However, in the presence of U.S. Marines and more Marine elements reported enroute to practice landing operations for joint amphibious striking force with the Nationalist Chinese troops, it is conceivable that the defense of Formosa also calls for the holding of Quemoy and other strategic off-shore islands and might even include the taking of a Chinese Communist holding.

Further reliable speculation insists that such a course of action supported by the U.S. Seventh Fleet might very well constitute a joint American-Chinese National assault force formidable enough as to call for a sudden change of plans by Mao Tse-tung and the Kremlin.

It also is interesting to note that typhoons are presently sweeping the coastal waters of Formosa and the Chinese mainland which will continue for the next two months, giving the defense forces of Formosa an opportunity to further train its fighting forces to razor's edge.

Dangerous Position

In the course of American action the perilous position of the Philippines must be contained in the whole question of the entire defense of the Western Pacific. It is pointed out that Formosa is only 90 miles north of America's outer defense perimeter of the Philippines Archipelago.

It must also be noted that within a radius of 1700 miles of Manila lives more than half of the total population of the world, containing the South East Asia countries most of which carry the complexion and support of the Kremlin.

Thus the present conflict off the coastal waters of the Chinese mainland and the defense of Formosa does not just mean the security of a few tiny islands in this area but the peace and security of the entire Far East with a dagger pointed straight at the heart of New Zealand and Australia.

A very reliable source of information currently is reporting what seems to be a struggle for the balance of power within

FREE PRESS STORY BEAMED TO RUSSIA

In an effort to familiarize the Soviet public with the meaning of a free press, Radio Liberation has launched a series of broadcasts to the USSR under the title of "The World's Great Newspapers."

The first paper to be so analyzed was the Christian Science Monitor. Among other publications on the schedule are the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, of Zurich, Switzerland; the Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna; the New York Times; the Ilta Sanomat of Helsinki; and the Manchester Guardian.

Radio Liberation's broadcasters, many of whom are former Soviet newspapermen, selected the Christian Science Monitor, because, they explained, it explores the "news behind the news" rather than concentrating on "spot news."

It is because of its obvious distinguishing features, as well as its reputation for high integrity and objectivity, that the Christian Science Monitor universally is regarded as one of the world's truly great newspapers, Radio Liberation told its Soviet audience.

Radio Liberation, which is the voice of former Soviet citizens, broadcasts around-the-clock to all parts of the Soviet Union in Russian and seventeen other Soviet languages. Its main studios are in Munich, with powerful transmitters located in West Germany and the Far East.

OPC Told U.S. Fails on PR Tactics in Far East

His Excellency Dr. Tingfu F. Taiang, Permanent Representative to the UN from China and Mrs. Tingfu F. Taiang chat with George Hamilton Combs at an OPC Open House on Aug. 26. The UN representative backgrounded the events leading up to the current situation in the Far East. He said that America had poor public relations in the Far East. And that it suffers from an inferiority complex because it doesn't tell its own story well enough in that area.

UPI REPORTER SAYS "WHISTLE" AIDED IN GETTING OUT STORY ON NAUTILUS

(Bill Sunderland was sound asleep when the phone rang and Bill Sexton, chief of the London UPI bureau, called to ask if he would like to go to the U.S. on the Nautilus. The submarine could take one reporter and UPI and the AP would have to flip for it. In the ensuing toss between Sexton and Jack Smith, assistant chief of the AP bureau in London, the coin came down tails and Sunderland was on his way. Editor's note.)

by William Sunderland

New York

A week underwater is not as bad as you would think — but it poses some unique problems in getting stories to where they can be used.

The first thought that entered my mind when I was offered the assignment of returning to the U.S. from England aboard the Nautilus was whether or not the long stretch inside a confined space would have any effect on my nerves.

Since I arrived in New York I've been asked the same question many times.

Well, it's no problem.

The Nautilus is 320 feet long and her insides are as spic and span as a chromium-plated, modern kitchen. There is plenty of room to wander around and so many things to see that there never is a feeling of being confined.

Go First Class

The Nautilus underwater is a dream. The boys who man her have a saying that's very true: "If you've got to go, ride first class."

There is no feeling of movement and very little engine noise as she plows along at more than twenty knots several hundred feet under the ocean.

But on top the Nautilus is more like a nightmare. Just a little rough water and she's plunging and lurching like a drunken sailor.

When we came up off the coast of New York it was pretty rough. A couple of pills from the ship's doctor were the only things that kept me from disgracing myself.

Getting stories from the Nautilus to UPI was a tough job. The Navy had agreed to relay them once they were in their hands, but first I had to get them to the Navy.

Underwater the Nautilus' radio cannot transmit or receive. The sub has to go up to periscope depth in order to put a radio antenna above the surface.

Every time the sub came up to periscope depth it cut her speed down by ten knots or more. And as the sub was in a hurry to get home it wasn't going to spend any more time up there than was absolutely necessary.

The Navy had arranged to transmit messages for the Nautilus at 0100 EDT every morning. The Nautilus would then send its messages and my dispatches.

The first night out I filed only about 100 words. But due to troubles and bad atmospherics that one dispatch kept us up for almost an hour. From then on I didn't let the dispatches run more than fifty words and tried to skip sending whenever possible.

When we surfaced forty miles from New York I put in a radio-telephone call to the UPI office. It was loud and clear and I was able to dictate for an hour without trouble.

Plans were made for another call in a couple of hours when the record would be completed. I thought my filing problems were over.

We smashed the record and then the call came through. I could hear the UPI office but they couldn't hear a word I was saying.

For half an hour I alternately yelled, tried talking soft, spelled the words out, anything in an effort to get across the one fact that we had the record. The UPI couldn't hear a word.

Whistle, Man

Finally, the UPI man on the other end of the line had an inspiration.

"If you have set a record whistle into the telephone," he said.

I puckered and blew. There was a whoosh of air but no whistle. I tried again. No whistle.

At this point I panicked.

Shoving the telephone at a nearby seaman I yelled, "Whistle. For God's sake. whistle."

He blew one of the longest, loudest blasts into the phone I've heard in some time. To me it was music comparable to Beethoven.

From then on there were no connections at all.

Story By Tug

We were nearing New York and word was passed that a tugboat was coming alongside to pick up film and feature stories that had been written during the voyage.

Setting up in one of the small, box-like officers cabins I began madly pounding away on a typewriter, trying to get as much of it on paper as possible before the tug arrived.

Then we hit a squall and the Nautilus began bucking and pitching.

It took a couple of pills from the ship's doctor to get me through the story, but it made the tug back to New York and was in the office within a couple of hours.

From then on there was little to do but stand on the deck of the Nautilus and watch one of the most impressive sights I've ever seen, the triumphant entry into New York.

William Frank Sunderland, a 23-year old Idaho-born UPIer, has been with that organization since he was 16. Meantime, he has squeezed in attendance at Boise, (Idaho) Junior College and George Washington and American Universities in Washington, D.C. He has worked in UP's Salt Lake City office and Washington office. At present he is assigned to the desk in London.

MASS TO BE SAID FOR J.P. McEVoy

Arranged by his son, Dennis McEvoy, the Mass will be in Lady Chapel, behind the main altar in St. Patrick's Cathedral. The Mass will be conducted by Father Vincent Donovan, O.P., the Dominican priest who is the brother of General William "Wild Bill" Donovan.

Don't ever let Pat tell you he doesn't like to travel. For holiday he went to Jamaica early this year, and, oh yes, to Southern France. This last vacation trip was cut short by the Middle East alarm. Next Week..East Lynne..oops, Little Rock.

OLD CHINA HAND

the very ranks of the Kuomintang, the hierarchy and ruling body of Nationalist China. It is pointed out that powerful personalities in the Kuomintang are not in agreement with Generalissimo's stubborn position of having his son assume a leading role in this hard core, ruling body of Nationalist China.

It is reported that General Chin-chin is rapidly gaining power and influence to take over in the event of a serious split in the Kuomintang and also in the event of the sudden death of the Generalissimo who today is an old man.

All of which points up a certain amount of vulnerability and weakness in the case of a sudden and all out attack by the joint Nationalist-American forces when unanimity of thought and action must be the order of the day.

His head-and heart—are 4 miles up ...even when his feet are on the ground!

His name is Lionel Olivier Casse. His job: Supervisor of Flight Personnel of the Air France fleet. He spends most of his time in the air, checking pilots and flight personnel. And even when he's back on the ground, his head—and heart—are still 4 miles up.

Lionel Casse is a man who knows fliers—and flying—like the back of his hand. He joined Air France as a pilot in 1938, and to date has logged over 12,000 hours of flying. He's at home behind the controls of a Constellation, Caravelle, Super Starliner—and the new Boeing 707 Intercontinental jet.

Like all Air France personnel, Lionel Casse was hand-picked for his intelligence and skill. He's one more reason you can fly Air France with confidence!
